Dear Friends,

In a constantly changing world, where hostile rhetoric and painful images frequently dominate news cycles, we have the enormous privilege—and responsibility—of hosting thousands of impressionable school students every month at the Dallas Holocaust Museum/Center for Education and Tolerance.

While the students are here, some receive an engaging and interactive tour from one of our trained docents. Others peruse the permanent collection relying on a highly informative audio guide. All take in an enlightening Special Exhibit, and, with prior arrangement, many hear the life-transforming testimony of one of our Holocaust survivor speakers.

An independent commissioned study found that visits to the Museum have both immediate and long-term positive effects on student attitudes and behaviors toward prejudice, hatred, and indifference. In fact, 83.3% of the teachers who took part in the study reported that after a Museum visit students are more willing to stand up for others, and 78% indicated that students are more tolerant of others.

We are extremely gratified to report this documented success as a key accomplishment in 2015. And we're also pleased to note these 2015 milestones:

- A record number of students from 452 different schools toured the Museum—35,513 students, a 14.9% increase over 2014.
- A total of 13,710 students visited the Museum through the Museum Experience Fund, which—with your generous financial donations—provides transportation and admission support to students whose schools do not have funds to afford a Museum visit. This total includes 4,080 students from the Dallas Independent School District, which represents a 43% increase in DISD scholarship visitors.
- A total of 10 teacher workshops were held, and 29 schools used our free Curriculum Trunks.
- A total of 108 volunteers contributed 3,392 volunteer hours.
- The Museum's Upstander Speaker Series, along with more and varied special programs, fundraising performances, and screenings of highly acclaimed films, helped grow total Museum Membership to 1,000, a record.
- And we were delighted to welcome to the Museum team Annie Black, Assistant Director of Programs; Barbara Acuña-Taylor, Officer of Events & Corporate Sponsorships; Felicia Williamson, Archivist/Special Collections Manager; Molly Gassner, Campaign Coordinator; and Sarah Bushey, Accounting, Operations, and Office Manager.

As one of 23 Holocaust-related museums in the United States, the Dallas Holocaust Museum is the only one of its kind serving North Texas and surrounding states. The Museum will soon be unable to accommodate the number of requests for student visits due to its size. We are making great progress on the capital campaign to raise the funds to build a new building, the design and scope of the exhibits the building will house, and on the design of the building and new permanent exhibition. (See more on page 10).

With your continued support, we can and must do more!

Together, we can build on our success, and, we can continue to impart the incredibly important history of the Holocaust and advance human rights to combat prejudice, hatred, and indifference. Your help will enable us to reach more young people and adults in North Texas and beyond—bettering the community and the world in which we live.

Sincerely,

Mary Pat Higgins

President and CEO

Stephen Waldman

Chairman of the Board of Directors

Education is at the core of the Museum's mission: we teach the history of the Holocaust and advance human rights to combat prejudice, hatred, and indifference.

Museum visitors—especially school children—learn about the horrors of Nazi discrimination, hatred, and the attempted annihilation of the Jews, as well as the systematic persecution of others during the Holocaust. Our Museum experience seeks to answer the question, "How could this happen?" Visitors leave with an understanding of attitudes and actions that can lead to genocide. It is our hope that following their tour, visitors will give renewed attention to the plight of others both locally and globally in places such as Burundi, Iraq or Syria.

In 2015, the Museum commissioned a study to explore the impact of a visit on the more than 35,000 students who come annually. The results:

- Students' attitudes and tolerance levels are strongly influenced by Museum visits.
- Understanding that passive actions/bystander behavior have negative impacts increased following a visit by 56.8% for middle school and 31.1% for high school students
 - Sense of how their behavior influences others increased 35% in both middle school and high school students

- Teachers noted student behavior changes following Museum visits.
- Over 78% of the teachers surveyed stated students are more tolerant of others and toward lifestyles different from their own
 - 79.3% indicated students are more open to sharing their beliefs and considering the beliefs of others
 - 83.3% said students are more willing to stand up for others

This study demonstrates that visits to the Museum have both immediate and long-term effects on student attitudes and behaviors regarding prejudice, hatred, and indifference.

Docent Training

We provide two 9-week training courses annually for volunteers wanting to become museum guides for group visitors. Currently, we have 38 docents.

Holocaust and Human Rights Educator Conference

We host a two-day conference for educators, each year, that prepares them to teach the Holocaust and other human rights-related topics in the classroom. In 2015, 54 teachers from 18 cities and 33 schools attended.

Curriculum Trunks

We loan educational trunks filled with books, videos, teacher guides and curricula, at no cost, to teachers throughout Texas and Oklahoma. Trunks cover several Holocaust-related topics for classroom use.

iRead Book Club

We host bi-monthly book club discussions for members and volunteers to explore Holocaust and other genocide-related topics through group reading.

Museum Experience Fund

We provide free admission and transportation reimbursements to economically disadvantaged school groups. In 2015, 13,710 students visited the Museum using the Museum Experience Fund.

The Junior Board

We provide unique leadership opportunities to high school students who come together from different campuses to produce specific programming. In 2015, they hosted a prom night for the Holocaust Survivors.

Law Enforcement and Health Professional Educational Training

We provide training for law enforcement and health professionals on professional ethics through the lens of Holocaust history.

Educator Preview Nights

We invite teachers to the Museum for tours and to learn about new rotating special exhibits before they open. There is no charge to attend Preview Nights.

SPEAKERS

Holocaust survivors, Kindertransportees and refugees, who regularly speak at the Museum, build unique educational and emotional bonds with school children and adult visitors.

These speakers testify to the best and worst of human behavior during the Holocaust. Nothing dispels denial more quickly than knowing the answer to the question, "How could this happen?" These speakers embody the words "Never Again," because as it has been written, Every time history repeats itself, the price goes up.

EXHIBITS AND EVENTS

Author, Louise Borden at Wartime Escape Exhibit Opening

Dale Hansen and Michael Sam

Speaker: Rogge Dunn
Art as Propaganda and Persuasion
January 15, 2015

Rogge Dunn, attorney and renowned art collector, discussed artist Arthur Szyk and art as a persuasive technique of propaganda. The lecture focused on Szyk's artwork as presented in Drawn to Action: The Life and Work of Arthur Szyk, the Museum's special exhibit at the time.

The Wartime Escape: Margret and H.A. Rey's Journey from France
February 12 – June 20, 2015

The exhibit, based on Louise Borden's The Journey That Saved Curious George: The True Wartime Escape of Margaret and H.A. Rey, detailed the Rey's escape from the Nazi invasion of France at the start of World War II. Framed art prints by Allan Drummond illustrated the Rey's journey that saved their lives as well as the manuscript that became The Adventures of Curious George. The family-friendly exhibit allowed guests of all ages to explore the exhibit and to connect the beloved character to a tale of survival. Author Louise Borden spoke at the event and afterwards signed copies of her book. Benefactor Sponsor: Fox Rothschild LLP; Friend Sponsor: Janis Levine Music Women and Children's Endowment Fund of the Dallas Jewish Community Federation and The Dallas Morning News.

Upstander Speaker Series: Michael Sam
March 26, 2015

The first speaker of the second annual Upstander Speaker Series, National Football League free agent Michael Sam spoke to a sold out crowd at Communities Foundation of Texas. Sam made history on February 9, 2014 when he became the first openly gay player to be drafted to the NFL. Sam is the 2014 recipient of the ESPY Arthur Ashe Courage Award. Sponsors: Congregation Beth El Binah and The Dallas Morning News.

Yom Hashoah, Holocaust Remembrance Day
April 16, 2015

Yom Hashoah, or Holocaust Remembrance Day, commemorates the lives and heroism of Jews who were murdered during the Holocaust and is a testament to how the Holocaust changed the world. Approximately 400 people joined us at Tiferet Israel to honor liberators Sam Kogutt, Albert Binko and Melvin Waters.

EXHIBITS & EVENTS

April 19, 1943:
A Day in the Holocaust
April 19, 2015

The event commemorated the day that is the focal point of our core exhibit. On this day, three important events occurred: the 20th Deportation Train from Belgium was attacked by resistance members, the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising began, and the Bermuda Conference met. The free event featured a talk from Holocaust survivor Jack Repp.

100th Anniversary of the Armenian Genocide
Film Screening:
The Armenian Genocide
April 30, 2015

The commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Armenian Genocide featured a reception and documentary screening of The Armenian Genocide. This genocide was carried out by the Ottoman government. Nearly two million Armenians living in Turkey were deported and massacred.

Film Screening: Conspiracy
May 7, 2015

The film is a dramatic recreation of the Wannsee Conference where Nazi officials devised the so-called "Final Solution to the Jewish Question." The film was presented for free by the American Council on Germany, Consulate General of the Federal Republic of Germany in Houston, the Anti-Defamation League, and the Museum.

Upstander Speaker Series:
Rabbi Michael Schudrich
June 4, 2015

Rabbi Michael Schudrich, Chief Rabbi of Poland, discussed the rebirth of Polish Jewry and the rise of antisemitism in Poland to a crowd of 200 people at the Jewish Community Center. A native New Yorker, Rabbi Schudrich spoke about helping Polish citizens who have discovered their heritage and want to know about their ancestors. Series Sponsor: Real Time Resolutions; Supporting Sponsors: The Dallas Morning News and G&H Ventures, LLC.

Spring Fundraiser: An Evening with Mona Golabek
June 10, 2015

Event Chairs: Dr. Michelle Bassichis and the Young Leadership Committee

American concert pianist Mona Golabek performed a custom one-woman show based on her book The Children of Willesden Lane to tell the story of her mother, Lisa Jura, a musical prodigy in Vienna who boarded the Kindertransport to escape Nazi persecution. Golabek played to a full house at the Wylly Theater in Dallas.

Ground Zero 360: Never Forget
July 2, 2015

New York-based Irish photographer Nicola McClean took photographs at Ground Zero and surrounding neighborhoods after the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center were attacked on September 11, 2001. The special exhibit included photographs of first responders (emergency workers, police officers, firefighters and others), sculptures made from steel beams of the Twin Towers, and audio of 9/11 calls from that day. McClean and Paul McCormack, her husband and former NYPD Captain, spoke at the exhibit opening to Dallas-area first responders and other guests about their experiences in the aftermath of the terrorist attack. Sponsors: Communities Foundation of Texas and City of Dallas Office of Cultural Affairs.

Film Screening: 9/11
July 23, 2015

The documentary by French filmmakers and brothers Jules and Gédéon Naudet began as a film about a rookie New York City firefighter, but instead captured the horrifying footage of the first plane hitting the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. The film follows the brothers as one joined first responders at the site of the attack. The movie was presented for free at the Museum.

Film Screening: German Concentration Camps Factual Survey
August 3, 2015

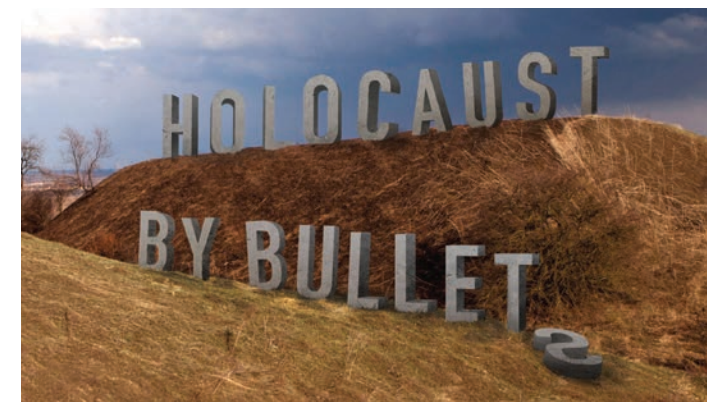

This screening of the Alfred Hitchcock co-directed documentary showed powerful footage documenting the horrors discovered following the liberation of the Nazi concentration camps. The film was shelved by the Ministry of Information in London in 1945. In 2010 the Imperial War Museum restored and completed the film. It premiered at the 2014 Berlin International Film Festival. About 225 people attended an exclusive screening of the film at Cinemark 17 and IMAX Theatre. Presenting Sponsor: Cinemark.

Holocaust by Bullets
September 10, 2015

The exhibit explored the mass killings of Jews shot to death and left in unmarked graves across Belarus, Russia and Ukraine after the Nazi invasion of the Soviet Union. Yahad-In Unum investigators collected eyewitness testimonies, photographs and maps to help visitors learn about these war crimes. Yahad-In Unum Project Manager Alexis Kosarevskyi, and Co-Founder Marco Gonzales, spoke at the exhibit opening. Sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Dallas. Special thanks to: Carl B. and Florence E. King Foundation, 70kft, Signworks of Dallas, Yahad-In Unum.

Jack Repp

Peace Day
September 20, 2015

In recognition of International Day of Peace, the Museum hosted a day on which three Holocaust Survivors, Max Glaubien, Rosa Blum and Jack Repp, told their stories of survival to the public. The event was free and nearly 200 people attended the talks throughout the day.

Upstander Speaker Series:
Lieutenant-General Romeo Dallaire (Retired)
October 15, 2015

Lieutenant-General Romeo Dallaire (Retired), Senator and celebrated humanitarian, spoke about his position as the Force Commander for the United Nations Assistance Mission for Rwanda (UNAMIR) in 1993. There, Dallaire witnessed the Rwandan Genocide. Dallaire spoke at Southern Methodist University's Martha Proctor Mack Grand Ballroom about human rights, genocide prevention, and the Romeo Dallaire Child Soldiers Initiative, dedicated to preventing the recruitment of child soldiers. Series Sponsor: Real Time Resolutions; Supporting Sponsors: Trea and Richard Yip, Harold Simmons Foundation, The Dallas Morning News.

OUR FUTURE

OUR FUTURE

The Need

Due to increased community demand and severe space limitations in the Museum's current leased space, the Board of Directors of the Dallas Holocaust Museum has approved a capital campaign for the creation of a permanent, state-of-the-art facility which will be called the Dallas Holocaust and Human Rights Museum.

The campaign called, "Building a Foundation of Hope" will not only transform and quadruple the Museum's exhibition space, but will also provide the opportunity to increase its education endowment and enhance its program offerings.

The Dallas Holocaust and Human Rights Museum will be located at the corners of Houston, Pacific, Record and Ross Streets, directly adjacent to the current facility.

Permanent Exhibition

The Permanent Exhibit will cover the Holocaust and Human Rights which will be connected by a section on the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials and the subsequent Convention for the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

The Holocaust section of the exhibit will explore the origins, development, and consequences of the Holocaust. In addition to a geographical focus, antisemitism, victimization under the Nazis, and rescue and resistance will be addressed.

The second part of the exhibit will explore contemporary genocides and human and civil rights in the United States, ending with a reflection area and a call to action.

Building Highlights

The new Museum will accommodate more than 200,000 visitors annually in its 50,000 square foot facility and will include the following features:

- 15,000 sq. ft. core exhibition space
- 2,500 sq. ft. travelling exhibition space
- 2 classrooms
- A distance Learning Lab
- Expanded library and climate-controlled archives
- A 250-seat auditorium
- Museum Store
- Memorial and reflection area
- Indoor and outdoor group gathering spaces

Funding and More Information

While in its "silent phase," the campaign has raised more than half of its financial goals in less than two years from a small group of generous board members, community leaders and donors. At the close of 2015, the campaign had raised $31.9M. As of the date of this publication, the campaign has raised $37.7M from 131 donors.

Stay tuned to hear more exciting updates on the "Building a Foundation of Hope" campaign this fall!

EVENT STATISTICS

Hope For Humanity, the primary annual fundraising event of the Museum, honored Mayor Mike Rawlings.

Mike Rawlings came to Dallas in 1976 with $200 in his pocket and proved that Dallas truly is the City of Opportunity. He worked his way up from an entry-level position to become the CEO of Tracy-Locke, then the largest advertising agency in the South. Currently, Rawlings serves as Vice-Chairman of CIC Partners.

Mike Rawlings was first elected the Mayor of Dallas in 2011 and re-elected in 2015. With his many accomplishments, Mayor Rawlings has proven to be an outstanding leader for our community.

To leverage new assets in our arts district, Mayor Rawlings formed the Mayor's Business Art Initiative to draw corporate participation in the largest urban arts district in the nation. He also believes in achieving academic excellence and is committed to improving Dallas ISD by adopting four south Dallas schools located in areas prime for growth.
